

SAYS IT'S NOT TRUE

Parkie Denies That There Were Improper Relations

BETWEEN HIM AND THE GIRL

The Calhoun County Investigation Is Moving Again—A Reporter Sees In Writing Sensational Reports.

MARSHALL, Mich., Feb. 18.—The state board of corrections and charities, with Bishop Gillespie presiding, met at the office of A. O. Hyde, in this city, this morning and renewed the investigation of the charges against Kasper Parkie, of the Calhoun county poor house. At the opening of the session Bishop Gillespie roundly rebuked the reporter who was let into the board's secret and its sessions by the personal invitation of a board member, for the account published of the last meeting, stating that he misrepresented and distorted the facts.

When Carrie Kerow, who makes the most serious charge against the superintendent of the county house, Parkie, was sworn in it was shown that she could not read and did not clearly understand the nature of an oath. She answered a few unimportant questions clearly.

Parkie testified this morning that the girl had been in his charge six or seven years; she assisted in the inside work and attended to the children in part of the house; she was not brought and had to be constantly told about her work and shown how to do it properly. Her memory was poor. Mrs. Mayles and Carrie were forbidden to talk together, after Parkie was told by his wife that Mrs. Mayles was not a proper person to associate with the girl, but disobeyed the order.

Parkie denied putting his arms about Mrs. Mayles or making improper advances to her. He also denied that improper relations existed between himself and Carrie Kerow. Upon confronting Mrs. Mayles she said the charges were not true. Parkie gave the opinion that Mrs. Mayles was a general disturber. He says she told one inmate if he would make certain statements about Parkie that she would take her to Battle Creek, where a bachelor would marry her, or they would go with a show or start a house of ill-repute; that she also tried to get others to tell damaging stories against him and his wife, but failed. Parkie denied having punished Carrie for saying he took liberties with her, but admitted having put her into a cell afterwards as punishment for something else. He said Mrs. Mayles had made an indecent remark to his wife. The women were forbidden to speak to the male inmates and to outsiders only in the presence of himself or his wife. He denied they were ordered to not speak to the county superintendent. It was the greatest delight of inmates to make charges against each other.

Carrie Kerow and Parkie were put on the stand in reference to their alleged improper relations at noon, but the board heard reporters and held a private session.

Escaped on Straw Ball.

YPSILANTI, Feb. 18.—Ernest White and Morris Root, the two boys arrested charged with enticing Eva Reynolds away for immoral purposes, did not put in an appearance yesterday when Justice Bogardus called their names to appear and save their bondsmen. The boys heard that the prosecution had a very strong case against them, and Monday evening took an eastern train for Paris unknown. The ball which was furnished is "straw" ball and, it is said, cannot be collected. The other young men who were interested in the case are thinking seriously of leaving for other climes not quite as warm as this.

The families of E. F. Griffith, Lafrance and Mrs. Gates, living in upper rooms, all lost their household goods and barely escaped themselves in their night clothes.
